FootballAvenue, the Forum on Business Development in football now in its third edition and reference point in Italy opens to the world of youth football with an important evolution: the organization, as of next may, of the Torneo Ravano, Europe's largest Primary School tournament.

A new appointment in the path that we are already taking in football: The Torneo Ravano now in its 31st edition and is an excellent example of "Social Commitment" by an Italian Professional Club. This tournament, created by the President of UC Sampdoria Paolo Mantovani in 1985 is now so ingrained throughout Liguria, that in the recent months we could feel great pressure on the right choice to be undertaken to ensure its best future.

The strength of this tournament, in addition to the presence of many boys and girls, is undoubtedly the involvement of institutions, aware of the extra work that would bring, but positive about the influence that these sports and educational activities create within the children.

In addition to the involvement of the Federations of the four sports represented and confirmation of patronage by CONI, comes new Institutional Support confirmed this year by the Lega Serie A, Serie B League and AIAC (Italian Coach Association).

Ludovica Mantovani, Director Europe Footballavenue, "The organization of the tournament Ravano is a "baton" that I very willingly take back. Let us continue with enthusiasm this beautiful adventure in youth football, that I will live today above all as a great responsibility towards our city and Region.
